

Abstract

A drinks machine is described, in particular a coffee machine with an entry device for solid cleaning agent, in particular in pressed form. With this drinks machine the user-friendliness and safety during cleaning are to be improved. For this purpose the provision of an automatically dosing, enclosed dosage device for the cleaning agent is suggested which includes a spout, a storage container protected from the spout and at least one dosage unit.